Ratings Explained

1. Ratings to the left of the player's name indicate the rating before the game, the ones to the right indicate the rating after the game.
2. Move with the mouse over the icon on the left of each game to obtain detailed rating calculation, as explained below.
3. Rating changes are calculated with full precision, then rounded and added to the players' rating they had before the game.
4. In doubles games, Ratings are calculated with the average of the 2 players for each team. The resulting rating change is then divided by 2 for each player.
5. The terms ap and hp are used for away and home player or team.
6. Players start with your league's base rating when they play their first game ever in the league. Unknown players are rated with your league's base rating, too.
